The Rebel

Johnnie Biggera

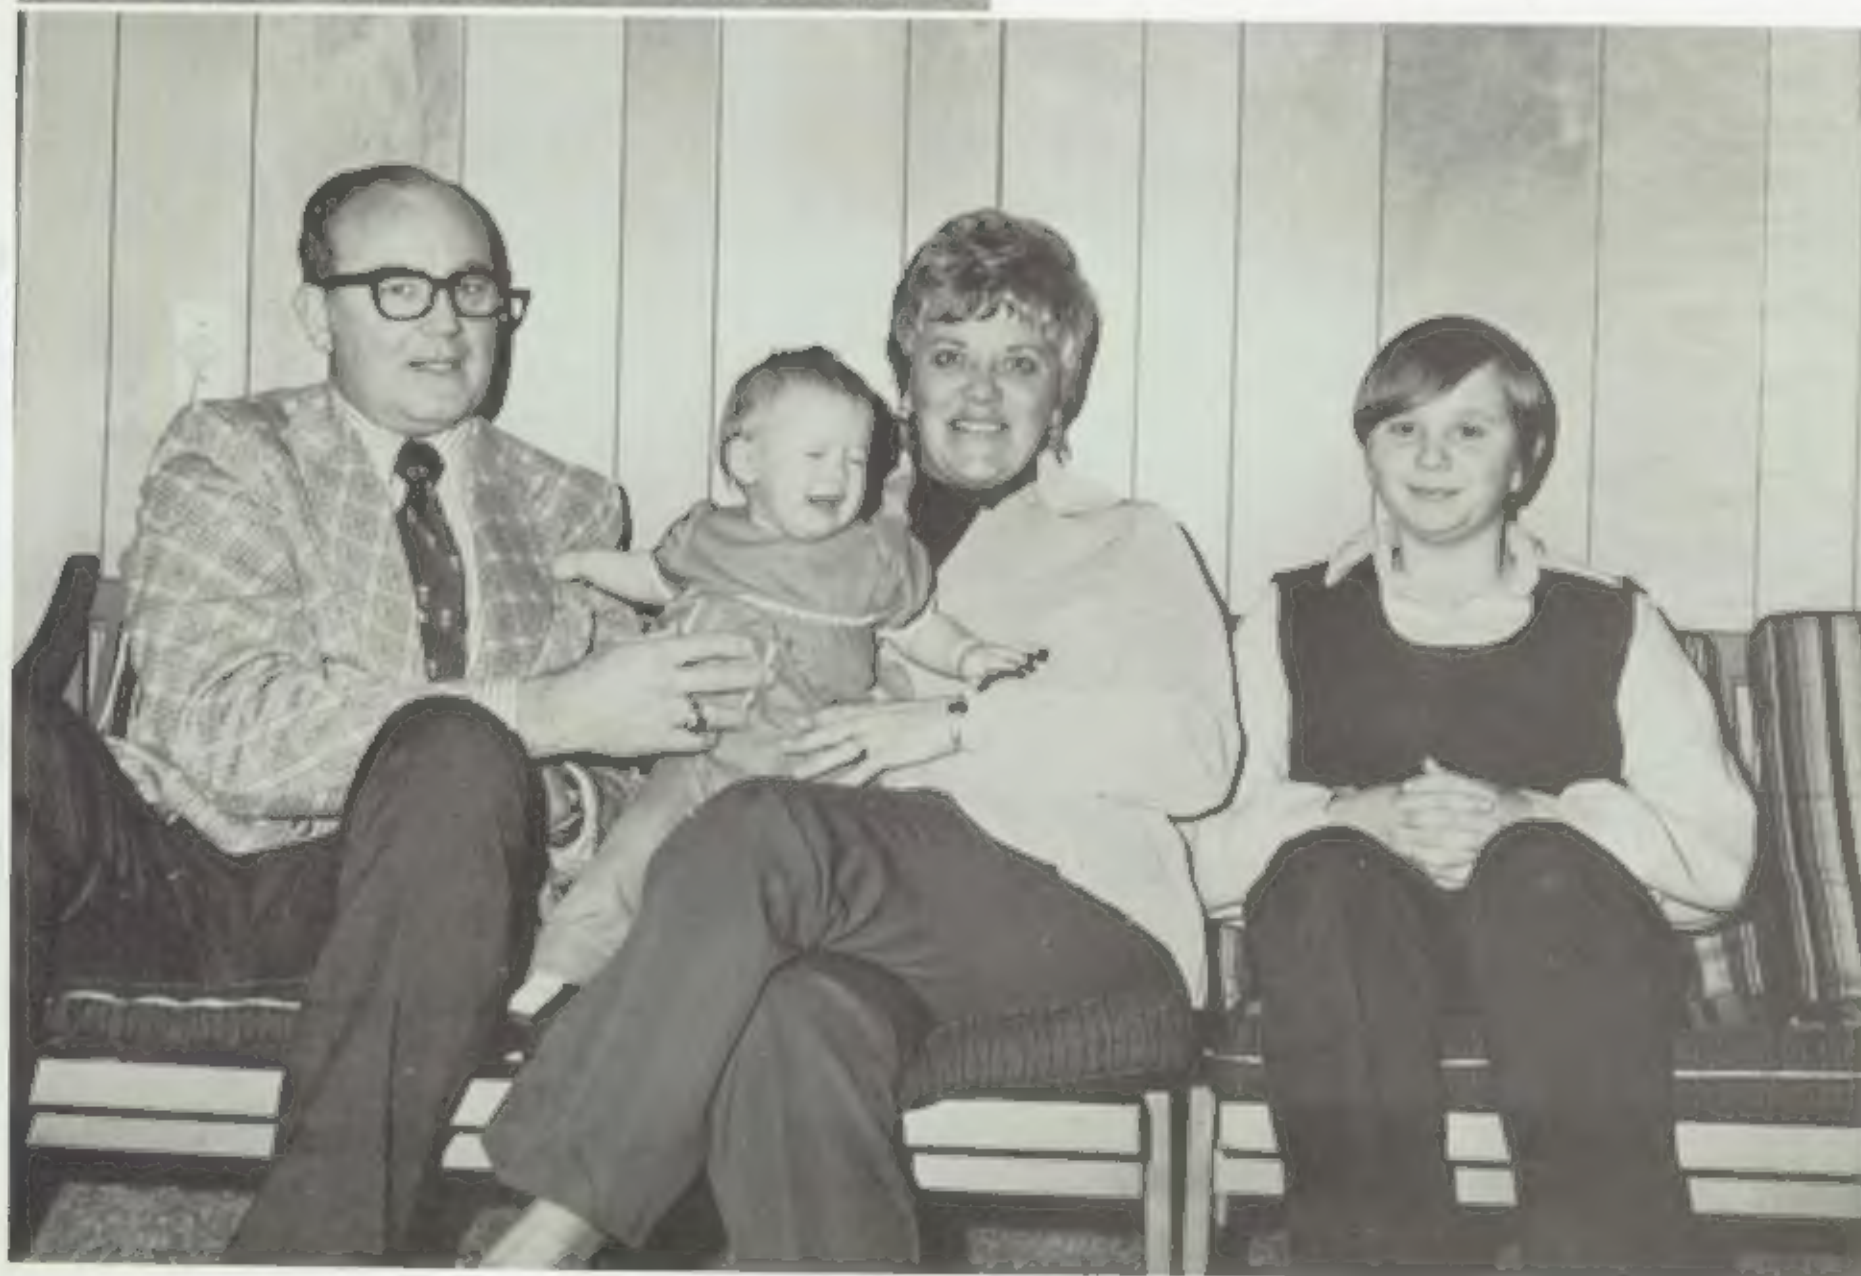

Seniors Nancy Green and Keith Pearson invite you to stroll with them along "Picture Walk" as they take you around the campus and through the halls of Sam Rayburn High School.

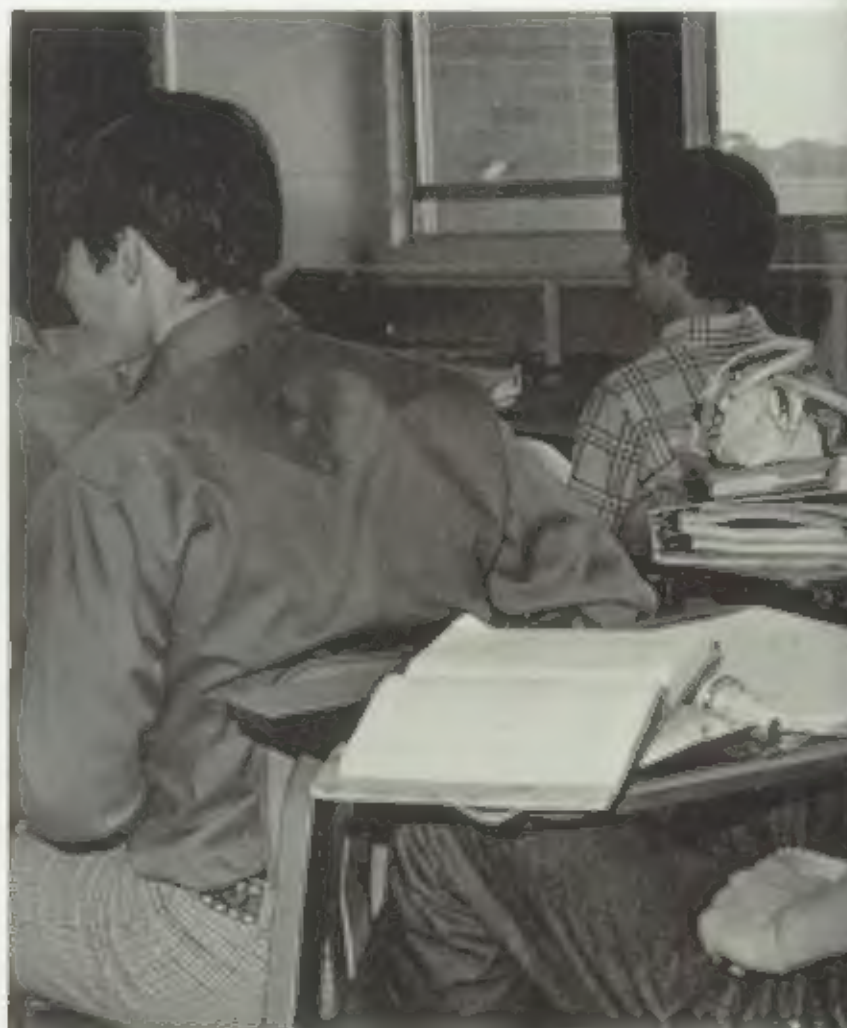

We will begin by introducing you to Sam Rayburn's FIRST FAMILY - Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, Kirk and Wendy.

At least there's no shortage of water, Nancy.

The many activities that make up a day at Sam Rayburn High.

Some things are more interesting than literature.

Wanda just isn't sure Shakespeare was that great!

Coach Hudson in the classroom.

At work on THE REBEL.

Mike checking things out.

A drink ON the bar.

What ever happened to all those people?

Our good friend, Son.

A WORD FROM THE EDITOR

What is THE REBEL? At the beginning of the school year the staff saw it as a dream - a dream of recording in picture form all the highlights of this year's activities. This edition represents a concerted effort of many individuals toward that end.

It is our hope that as you turn through the pages of this book that what we saw as a dream, you will see as a reality, and that it will, in years to come, serve as a pleasant reminder of good friends, good times, and good things at SRHS.

We express our appreciation to all who helped in the preparation of this yearbook. Especially do we wish to thank our advisor, Mrs. Billie Manhart, without whose guidance and assistance this publication would not have been possible.

Basically there are two kinds of teachers - those who by the mere rote processes instruct, and those who by principle and example TEACH - not only subject matter, but a way of life. It is in this second category that we would place a former teacher who for many years has played a significant role in our school and community life. Therefore, in recognition and appreciation of her outstanding contribution to the education of the youth of this community, and with a deep sense of respect, admiration, and gratitude, we dedicate the 1974 edition of THE REBEL to one who has been our teacher, our co-worker and our friend, MISS MATTIE DUNCAN.
